Overview

A versatile litigator with a proven track record in resolving complex disputes, Mandelbaum Barrett PC Counsel Andrew Ullrich, represents clients in a broad range of litigation and transactional matters for individual and corporate clients. His practice has often been concentrated on matters arising from the purchase, financing, sale, and management of commercial and residential real estate. He has extensive trial experience in both State and Federal Courts, as well as in arbitrating matters. He has litigated and advised clients in landlord-tenant disputes across the state. He also represents real estate brokers, general contractors, suppliers, design professionals, and business owners on a wide range of projects and disputes. In the real estate space, he drafts and negotiates contracts as well as works on leasing, financing, and brokerage agreements.

Andrew's communication style with clients has consistently focused on making the legal process comprehensible, while also alleviating the stress and uncertainty that typically arise during lawsuits or significant transactions. His dedication and prompt responsiveness demonstrate a personal investment in the outcome of every case he handles.

He is a recognized speaker and presenter on issues including the New Jersey Anti Eviction Act, real estate brokerage law, and workplace professionalism.
